TYPES OF RETAIL STORE SECURITY DEVICES

Electronic (Alarmed) Security
In a retail store, if a theft attempt is made on your merchandise, staff can be alerted by an alarm sounding. This type of retail store security device is termed Electronic (Alarmed) Security. Typically, this style of system is used to protect higher valued merchandise, such as Mobile Phones, Tablets etc… These devices come in many different forms including alarm sensor cables, alarm display posts and cabinet alarms.

Physical (Mechanical) Security
Physical or Mechanical devices are retail store security devices that tether the merchandise that is being protected. These devices allow merchandise to be secured and anchored. Devices in this category include mechanical recoilers, display cabling, cable lock boxes and security display hooks. This type of security is a cost effective solution to securing merchandise you have displayed.
